indicated below. The authorities for the statements contained in the several paragraphs are also mentioned against each for facility of reference.

Para-1. Addition is made at the end to show that the British Indian Acts were, before Rendition, extended to Mysore by notifications issued by the Gov. General.

Please Prefix 5 To 1 of the Rep & Ords

Para-3. It is not clear if it is necessary to refer to the articles of the Instrument of Transfer as the latter was superseded by the Mysore Treaty and as the provisions of Articles 18 and 19 of the latter are practically the same as those articles 19 & 20 of the former. If it is necessary to retain the same reference, the wording may perhaps be altered by changing 'are' into 'were' and inserting the words 'which are now superseded by' after 'Instrument of Transfer', omitting the word 'and as'.

Para-5. Some verbal additions are made to make the meaning clear. The sentence beginning 'Under a notification' marked in pencil may perhaps go to the end of the paragraph.

Para-7 The privilege of Budget discussion and of Interpellation was actually given in 1914, though it was referred to in the Dewan's Dasara address of 1913. Hence the alteration. In regard to the other changes referred to in this para, the Calendar year may be mentioned, to keep up uniformity.

The file attached to this note is not found in the Secretariat.

Para 8 Addition is made to the sentence in this para to make the X Scope of the revision clear. The formation of the Finance Committee, with a non-Official member of the Leg Council as one of its members, and the power to discuss Resolutions on matters of general administrative interest ordered to be conferred on the non-Official members have not been mentioned in this para or anywhere else. Hence addition is made in pencil for consideration

PART IV. CHAPTER III.

Section 7.

Legislation.

Legislative enactments passed prior to the Rendition. 1831-1881.

1. Mysore being a native State, the Legislative enactments of the Government of India did not necessarily apply to it while under British administration. When therefore, the extension to Mysore of any Legislative enactment of the Government of India or of the Governments of Madras, Bengal or Bombay was considered necessary, a special application was invariably made to the - - - Governor-General in Council.

Acts of the Government of India and Local Governments in force up to 1880-1881.

2. Two lists one showing the Acts of the Government of India and the other, the Acts of the Madras Government extended to Mysore either in whole or in part up to 1880-1881 and not wholly repealed by subsequent legislation are given in Part V (Statistical).

Powers of the Mysore Government in regard to Legislation.

3. These are defined in - - - Articles 19-20 of the Instrument of Transfer and in Articles 18-19 of the Mysore Treaty of 1913.

Organization of the Legislative Department.

4. A Legislative Department was first organized in January 1886, as a separate department under the superintendence of an officer designated the Legislative Secretary." Since February 1895, the department forms a branch of the General and Revenue Secretariat.

Origin and powers of the Mysore Legislative Council.

5. With a view to associate with the Government in the work of Legislation, a certain number of official and non-official gentlemen qualified by practical experience and knowledge of local conditions and requirements, and to secure, to legislative measures, the benefit of discussion from - - - - different standpoints, the Mysore Legislative Council was established in June 1907 by Regulation I of that year. Section 15 of the Regulation however providing for the passing of Emergency Regulations in certain cases by His Highness the Maharaja and his Government independently of the Legislative Council. The Dewan was constituted the President with the State Councillors as Ex-officio Members and not less than 10 or more than 15 additional Members, to be nominated by Government and holding office for two years at a time, not less than 2/5ths of the additional Members being non-officials. Under a notification dated 10th June 1908, two of the additional seats on the Council were thrown open for election by members of the Dasara Representative Assembly. The Council was empowered to make rules for the conduct of business and its work was confined to the consideration and passing of measures introduced at the meetings, the enactment of every measure resting with His Highness the Maharaja.

6. In 1914 the Mysore Legislative Council Regulation of 1907 was amended by Regulation I of 1914 and the number of additional members was increased to not less than 15 and not more than 21. Four seats instead of 2 were thrown open for election by the members of the Representative Assembly and 4 seats for election by the 8 Districts grouped into 4 electorates.

7. The privilege of discussing the Budget and of interpellation was accorded to the Legislative Council in the year 1918. In 1915-16 powers were given to the Members of the Legislative Council to ask supplementary questions and the total number of questions that could be asked at a single sitting was raised from 12 to 20.

8. During the year 1916-17, the rules for the discussion of the Budget in the Legislative Council were revised, providing for the supply of the draft Budget Estimates to each Member as soon as possible after the 12th April every year.

Revision of Acts passed prior to the Rendition.

9. On the Rendition, the change of Government rendered it necessary to revise the Acts already in force in Mysore in order to make them applicable to the altered state of affairs. These notifications in regard to the interpretation of the Acts are given at page iii of Volume I, Mysore Code.

10

A schedule of the Acts in force at the time of Rendition was appended to the Mysore Treaty of 1913.

Mysore Codes.

10. The various Regulations - - - passed into law up to 1912 have been revised and published in five volumes forming the Mysore Codes.

and those passed from 1912 to the end of 1917 are in the Compilation at the Statistical Tables.

11. The list of Regulations passed since 1881 is given in Part V Statistical.
